Territory Government Donates to the Queensland Flood Appeal

The Territory Government will donate $500,000 to help Queenslanders overcome the devastating floods that have affected much of their state.

Acting Chief Minister Delia Lawrie said Northern Territory Emergency Services crews are also on standby to assist the relief effort if requested by the Queensland Government.

Ms Lawrie said the floods were the worst in Queensland’s history and had affected more than 200,000 people.

“The Territory Government has a proud history of supporting those in need and it is only fitting that we help Queenslanders rebuild their lives,” Ms Lawrie said.

“The $500,000 will go to the Red Cross which is administering the Queensland Premier’s Disaster Relief Appeal and will decide where this money is most needed.

“Northern Territory Emergency Services crews are on standby to help their Queensland counterparts if and when a request might come through.

“Territorians have been impacted by disastrous floods and cyclones in the past and have received tremendous support from people throughout the country.

“Queenslanders are strong and proud people and I am sure that with time and appropriate support they will be able to overcome these tragic floods and rebuild their lives.”

Territorians wanting to donate to the Queensland Premier’s Disaster Relief Appeal can do so by calling 1800 219 028 to make a donation by credit card.
