A condition of the mine’s open-cut expansion in 2006 was the appointment of an Independent Monitor to review the environmental performance of the mine.

Environmental Earth Services VIC is the appointed Independent Monitor and its 2012 report covers the operating period October 2010 to September 2011, as well as an on-site inspection conducted in May 2012.

Information provided in the report will be used by the Department of Mines and Energy in its review of the operator’s Mining Management Plan covering the 2012/2013 operational period and in the department’s upcoming annual audit of the mine to take place next month.

The Independent Monitor presented his findings to a community meeting in Borroloola yesterday and has briefed key parties in Darwin today.
