Educating our future leaders

The Australian Defence Force Academy (ADFA) provides education and military training for the future leaders in Australia’s Navy, Army and Air Force. The program at ADFA combines a world class degree from the University of New South Wales with military training and leadership development. Undergraduate degrees include Arts, Business, Engineering, Information Technology, Science and Technology. Midshipmen and cadets also earn a salary, enabling them to focus on their studies and training in preparation for their future careers in the Australian Defence Force.
