CLP OPPOSITION IGNORES INPEX AGAIN

Chief Minister Paul Henderson said his Government would continue to fight to secure the $12 billion Inpex project for the Territory, despite the CLP Opposition’s campaign against it.

Mr Henderson said he was staggered the Opposition Leader Terry Mills has failed to ask any questions on the Inpex project during today’s Estimates Committee.

“The $12 billion Inpex project would be the single largest project in the Territory’s history, underpinning our economy for decades and creating thousands of jobs for Territorians,” Mr Henderson said.

“During 11 and a half hours of budget scrutiny by the Estimates Committee today, Terry Mills failed to ask even a single question about the campaign to convince Inpex to build its $12 billion project at Middle Arm.

“I am doing all I can to secure this project – it is one of my main priorities as Chief Minister and I will keep fighting until a final decision is made.

“Terry Mills has been against this project from the start and it is clear he is still prepared to risk the economic growth it would deliver for Territorians with his ongoing campaign against it.

“I will continue to offer certainty to Inpex that Middle Arm is the best option for their project because it will deliver economic benefits and jobs for Territory families into the future.”
