Katherine Research Station Open Day

Minister for Regional Development Karl Hampton will today attend the Katherine Research Station for its Open Day.

“The Department of Regional Development’s Research Station plays an important role in managing agriculture, horticulture and environmental research in the Territory, said Mr Hampton.

“This will be an opportunity to learn about the role of the Research Farm and see first hand the projects that staff are working on.

“A number of tours will be taking place during the day and this hands on opportunity is a great fun way to learn about the activities of the Station.

“The Department will also be show casing exhibits from the commercial sector on horticulture, farm machinery and nurseries.

“I encourage Katherine region residents to come along and not only enjoy the open day but learn about the great work undertaken at the Research Station.”

Katherine Research Station Open Day runs from 9am to 2pm (Located 4 km South of Katherine).
