Minister for Indigenous Development, Malarndirri McCarthy today congratulated the not for profit organisation Life Without Barriers on launching its Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP).

Minister McCarthy said that Life Without Barriers has joined with other Territory businesses and organisations who are committed to improving the lives of Indigenous Australians.

"Life Without Barriers is setting a great example of how to engage with Indigenous Australians through its innovative programs and I am honoured to be launching their Reconciliation Action Plan," said Ms McCarthy.

“It is one of the largest non-government providers of out of home care for children and young people, and leading provider of services for people with a disability and those living with a mental health issue.

“So despite their tough job Life Without Barriers has been able to take positive steps along the road to reconciliation and I encourage all Territorians to follow their example.

“The Northern Territory Government joins with Life Without Barriers and is committed to reconciliation and a more compassionate and inclusive Australia.”

Life Without Barriers is a not for profit organisation is committed to providing a safe and support environment for people with disability, children, young people and vulnerable persons.

Reconciliation Action Plans (RAP) are voluntary instruments promoted by Reconciliation Australia to help build positive relationships between Indigenous and non-Indigenous people.

The launch of Life Without Barriers Reconciliation Action Plan will take place at the Wesleyan Church, Darwin Botanical Gardens at 2:00pm today.
