McRoberts Inquiry
Needs to be Wide-ranging

Gerry Wood, Independent Member for Nelson says any inquiry into the McRoberts affair has to be broad enough to allow police to have the opportunity to raise matters which are concerning them about their own police force.

Gerry says he has had a number of matters raised with him which are concerning and feels that the only way the people with those concerns will be able to air them without fear of incrimination would be through a broad reaching judicial inquiry.

Gerry hopes the Chief Minister will give police a chance to raise matters, in camera if needed, so that the public can be sure all is well with our police force and if not, measures will be taken to make sure everything is operating as it should.
