25 July 2007

Antisocial Behaviour Summit

The ideas put forward at the anti-social behaviour forums in Alice Springs in recent weeks will be presented at a summit in the town next month.

A community summit will investigate solutions to antisocial behaviour issues in Alice Springs.

The summit will be held on Thursday, August 9, from 1-4pm in the Centralian College Theatrette.

Chief Minister Clare Martin said the summit would build on the work carried out in a series of forums held in Alice Springs in June.

“Residents, local businesses and community representatives from in town and out bush have taken part in these forums,” Ms Martin said.

“It’s clear a lot of work is underway from police, the community and Government agencies to tackle antisocial behaviour and its causes.

“The dry town regulations come into effect in Alice Springs on August 1 and policing strategies have reduced crime and antisocial behaviour in the town centre.

“The proposals presented at the summit build on this work and will provide government and the community with further solutions and a plan of action.”

Reports from the forums are posted on the website solutionsalice.nt.gov.au and people are also encouraged to provide their own feedback through the website.

It’s important for as many people as possible to have their say in developing solutions to antisocial behaviour.

“This is an issue for the whole community and I’d like to thank all those who have taken the time to participate in the forums held in the lead up to the summit.

“I urge everyone interested in this issue to attend the summit.”

Media Contact: Richard O’Leary 040111 9586
Moving the Territory Ahead