Indigenous Territorians have until Friday (June 11) to apply for 15 indigenous traineeships currently available with the Department of Health and Community Services, Minister for Employment, Education and Training Syd Stirling said today.

Mr Stirling said the traineeships are being offered in areas including patient care assistance, grounds maintenance and community liaison.

“I would urge indigenous Territorians to consider applying for one of these traineeships as an excellent first step in undertaking a career with the NT Public Sector.

“These positions take to 113 the number of apprenticeships or traineeships offered with the NTPS under the Territory’s first-ever Jobs Plan.

“The Territory Government set itself a target to put on an extra 200 apprentices and trainees in the NTPS over three years – we are well on track to exceed that target.”

The additional DHCS apprenticeships/traineeships will be based in Darwin, Nhulunbuy and Alice Springs.

Interested people can access more information from the Employment section of the NT Government website at www.nt.gov.au