1 July 2005

INTERNATIONAL RECOGNITION FOR SECONDARY EDUCATION REVIEW

Employment, Education and Training Minister Syd Stirling today congratulated consultancy company, Socom, after it won a prestigious international award for its consultation work on the Territory Government’s secondary education review titled “Voice in our Future”.

Mr Stirling said Socom was the only Australian organisation to receive an award from the International Public Relations Association this year.

“This is well-deserved recognition for what was an extremely important project for the Territory,” Mr Stirling said.

“Socom, headed by Sheila O’Sullivan, did an excellent job of consulting very broadly on the secondary education review and pulling together the results of that consultation into a set of cohesive recommendations for Government.

“It was a huge task that Socom carried out in a highly professional manner, taking into account the diverse range of views put to them as they conducted extensive consultations throughout the Territory.

“Socom will continue to work with Government on implementing the outcomes of the secondary education review to ensure our young people have access to the best education possible.”

Contact: Mary Fall  0401 119 770