WEBSITE REVIEW

What a nerd wants

By NICK CALACOURAS

WHAT do you get for the geek who has everything? Well, you're bound to find something at thinkgeek.com. It's the ultimate website for the uber-nerd.

If you know what a Tauntaun is, you'll want your very own Tauntaun sleeping bag. Or maybe you've read Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy enough times to appreciate a "Don't Panic" towel. Or perhaps you want a T-shirt that proudly proclaims "Han Shot First".

ThinkGeek started in the mid-'90s as a concept to create and sell things to people who were on the front line as the internet was forged. But the website grew to include gadgets, clothing, toys and books.

For geeks of all ages, ThinkGeek carries products for kids — including a Lil' Vampire Pacifier — and products in bacon included flavoured lip balm, Zombie Blood Caffeinated Energy Potion and Stay Puft Caffeinated Gourmet Marshmallows.

For the Ghostbusters fan, you can order some Stay Puft Caffeinated Gourmet Marshmallows.

ThinkGeek even offers the opportunity for geeks to submit their own T-shirt ideas.
