Sun Newspapers WEDNESDAY, September 14, 2011

Have your say about hospital

By FERGUS McEWAN

PALMERSTON and rural residents are encouraged to raise their voices about the design and planning of the new Palmerston hospital.

In a joint venture the Federal and NT governments have committed to building a $110 million hospital in the area.

Health Minister Kon Vatskalis announced last week the public would be asked for input.

A survey to gauge opinion on where the hospital should be located and how it should be designed will be available at various locations including the Palmerston library and shopping centre.

It will also be able to be completed online and at the Palmerston City Council office.

Palmerston residents will also receive the survey distributed to their letterboxes.

To complete the survey, go to www.healthynt.nt.gov.au

Lessons learnt out of the blue

By CLAYTON BENNETT

PALMERSTON and rural residents are encouraged to raise their voices about the design and planning of the new Palmerston hospital.

In a joint venture the Federal and NT governments have committed to building a $110 million hospital in the area.

Health Minister Kon Vatskalis announced last week the public would be asked for input.

A survey to gauge opinion on where the hospital should be located and how it should be designed will be available at various locations including the Palmerston library and shopping centre.

It will also be able to be completed online and at the Palmerston City Council office.

Palmerston residents will also receive the survey distributed to their letterboxes.

To complete the survey, go to www.healthynt.nt.gov.au