Malcolm Speed, one of Australia's most widely-experienced sports administrators, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Oceania Cycling Federation announced yesterday that Speed (pictured right) had been appointed general secretary, but he is believed to be the favourite to take over a much bigger role – the Cycling Australia presidency – on Tuesday.

Speed, who formed Australia's professional road racing team, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Greens have won the last two flags and will make it a top grade hat-trick by beating Waratah in the biggest game of the season.

The board has only three members – Ryan, events manager Lloyd Freeburn and Speed, who joined three months ago.

Speed announced extensive governance reforms in April.

Malcolm Speed, one of Australia's most widely-experienced sports administrators, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Oceania Cycling Federation announced yesterday that Speed (pictured right) had been appointed general secretary, but he is believed to be the favourite to take over a much bigger role – the Cycling Australia presidency – on Tuesday.

Speed, who formed Australia's professional road racing team, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Greens have won the last two flags and will make it a top grade hat-trick by beating Waratah in the biggest game of the season.

The board has only three members – Ryan, events manager Lloyd Freeburn and Speed, who joined three months ago.

Speed announced extensive governance reforms in April.

Malcolm Speed, one of Australia's most widely-experienced sports administrators, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Oceania Cycling Federation announced yesterday that Speed (pictured right) had been appointed general secretary, but he is believed to be the favourite to take over a much bigger role – the Cycling Australia presidency – on Tuesday.

Speed, who formed Australia's professional road racing team, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Greens have won the last two flags and will make it a top grade hat-trick by beating Waratah in the biggest game of the season.

The board has only three members – Ryan, events manager Lloyd Freeburn and Speed, who joined three months ago.

Speed announced extensive governance reforms in April.

Malcolm Speed, one of Australia's most widely-experienced sports administrators, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Oceania Cycling Federation announced yesterday that Speed (pictured right) had been appointed general secretary, but he is believed to be the favourite to take over a much bigger role – the Cycling Australia presidency – on Tuesday.

Speed, who formed Australia's professional road racing team, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Greens have won the last two flags and will make it a top grade hat-trick by beating Waratah in the biggest game of the season.

The board has only three members – Ryan, events manager Lloyd Freeburn and Speed, who joined three months ago.

Speed announced extensive governance reforms in April.

Malcolm Speed, one of Australia's most widely-experienced sports administrators, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Oceania Cycling Federation announced yesterday that Speed (pictured right) had been appointed general secretary, but he is believed to be the favourite to take over a much bigger role – the Cycling Australia presidency – on Tuesday.

Speed, who formed Australia's professional road racing team, appears set to become cycling's new boss.

The Greens have won the last two flags and will make it a top grade hat-trick by beating Waratah in the biggest game of the season.

The board has only three members – Ryan, events manager Lloyd Freeburn and Speed, who joined three months ago.

Speed announced extensive governance reforms in April.